Beschreibung:

AFME strongly supports the initiative to streamline the EU sustainable finance regulatory framework, ensuring that it focuses on mobilising capital for the transition while minimising regulatory burdens. The European Commission's proposals to amend CSRD, CSDDD and the EU Taxonomy are an important start to this endeavour, but do not currently address key challenges faced by banks under CSRD and Taxonomy reporting. Further work is required to provide certainty to companies, address challenges for the first wave of companies reporting under CSRD, and to review the impact of the reduced CSRD scope on regulation of the financial sector. In addition, the simplification efforts on the EU Taxonomy need to be scaled up.
